EXPELLED STUDENT COMES IN STEERAGE

Ordered Out of Saxony After Injustice at Hands of

BLAMES DRESDEN CONSUL

G. Stewart Scott Tells of Imprisonment and Trial in German Kingdom,

NEW YORK, December 25 .- G. Stew art Scott, the young Canadian student at the Freiburg School of Mines, whose Saxony has aroused a storm of inservice, arrived on the steamship Lusi-tania yesterday. He came in the steertunia yesterday. He came in the steerage.

His father, Henry S. Scott, is attached to the British consulate as special customs agent of the Canadian government, and the family lives in one of the landsomest residences in Bay Ridge.

His mother and sister went to meet him at the Cunard Line pier at the foot of Wert Fourternth Street, and learned he had been sent to Ellis Island. They went there, and when Scott was released there was an affectionate meeting. The student declared to his mother and sister that the steerage was better than remaining under any but an American or British flag any longer, and the three then took the ferry to the Battery.

"Isn't Trying to Square It."

At the Scott home at Ridge Boulevard and Eighty-fourth Street, overlooking the lower bay, young Scott told a reporter last night about his strange experience abroad.

He is twenty-four years old, tall and slender, with light hair. He is very deaf.

siender, with light hair. He is very deaf.

"Don't size up my experience as that of a frivolous student who has had an escapade and is trying to square matters with his governor," he deslared. And he was very careful to explain that he had been graduated from the School of Science at the University of Toronto in 1995 and acted as assistant to the professor of geology there.

He entered the school when sixteen and graduated at the head of his class in spite of his deafness. He studied mineralogy and geology especially with the intention of developing as an economic geologist. During his student days and afterward he went on geological excursions in many parts of Canada, in the Rocky Mountains, the Cobalt region and in New Ontario.

Because of the international reputation of the Mining School at Freiburg, Germany, it had long been his ambition to study there. His family had moved from Toronto to Bay Ridge on account of his father's position, and he went abroad.

Young Scott left here a little more than a year ago, and began his course at the Freiburg school. He often took excursions into the mountains there in geological field work, and on one of his walks last August wandered along the outlying country near Tharaudt. Seeing a cherry tree, he stopped to pick some of the cherries. While doing this the owner was deaf and began to protest in German. While Scott knew some German, he could not hear him anyway, and not knowing the man was, also deaf, he tried to explain, There were words neither of them fleard, several sharp glances and a clinch.

Thrown Into Prison.

As Scott explained it, he started to walk away, when the man suddenly grabbed hold of him. Scott had a cane hand a hammer, which he carried on his walks to break rocks open, but knowing how to use his fists, brought them into play to defend himself. The German had grubbed the cane, but Scott took it away from him. Scott then left his antagonist, and after a long walk boarded a train back to The German was in court, and he expanded a cane plant a hammer, which he carried on his walks to break rocks open, but knowing how to use his fists, brought knowing how to use his fists, brought them into play to defend himself. The German had grubbed the cane, but Scott took it away from him. Scott took it was going to be whipped, and i resolved not be that one, so I acted in self-deriman him freiburg. He forgot his hammer, which he had thrown aside during the cincounter.

When he arrived at the station in freiburg he was arrested by a body of gendarmes, and, a charge of "schwear in him. That wos all he could learn. "For two days I requested a doctor and that I be permitted to purchase something nourishing to cat," he said yesterday, "but no attention was paid me until two students in the academy, who had heard of my arrest, visited me. After that I was permitted to send out for my meals and write letters, but every communication had to be written in German and put in an unsealed envelope. I was confined this way twelve and a half days.

Admitted to Ball. Admitted to Bail.

Admitted to Bull.

"At the end of this time the students who had found me arranged for my being admitted to ball amounting to 2.900 marks. This sum was raised by subscription among the students. I went back to the school and there awaited my trial, which was set for November 15. But in the meantime, believe actives of Canada and a British being a native of Canada and a British subject, I presented my British pass-port to Herr Palamie, the British con-sul-general in Dresden, whose jurisdic-tion includes the Freiburg district, but he gave me a chilly reception and said

A White Christens.

A White Christmas.

Because of the unexpected snow and rain and slush Manchester's christmas was more quiet than had been anticipated, but it was nevertheless thoroughly enjoyed in all sections of the city. The dampness underfoot and overhead served to limit the number and size of the boys' bonines and drive them to dryer fires indoors, but there were hardy spirits who ventured forth from time to time to set off giant crackers and drept the air reverberating with the detonation and smell of exploding powder.

All public offices were closed save the gost-office, where cierks and carriers strugged to keep abroast of the never-cessing rush of Christmas mail. Carriers were out in the slush during the morning with bags piled high with bundles and Christmas and the appearance of the office last night indicates that there will be many to be remembered on Mondey. By Monday ingith, however, all should be in regular order.

Two Small Fires.

The fire department has had but one call throughout the Christmas season. Yesterday just after 2 o'clock an siarm was rung in from Thirteenth and Decauci Streets. The firemen found a blaze pouring from the chimney of the home of Mrs. Maggie M. Duke, at 117 East Thirteenth Street, probably caused by building too large a fire in an old chimney. There was practically no damage.

an old chimney. There was practically no damage.

More serious for the moment was a small blaze carrly yeaterday morning, which was put out by neighbors before the department could be notified. About a o'clock in the morning the awning in front of the dry goods store of William Crozler, at 1811 Hull Street, caught fire, probably from sparks from fireworks. Jacob Levy, whose store is in the same block, was passing at the time on his way home with his brother. Seeing that the building was in imminent danger they climbed up and tore away the burning awning, and with the assistance of other passorsby succeeded in extinguishing the fire The damaged was limited to the loss of the awning and a georching for the woodwork.
